FAQ

In 2014, the report named: Bagni di Lucca, Balzan, Campi Bisenzio, Empoli, Mantua, Orvieto, Perugia, Siena, Spoleto, Viterbo, Villa D'Este, Vivarra, In 2015 the report selected: Rome, Naples, Bari, Pescara, Florence, Torino, Turin, In 2016 the report named: Port of Trieste, Criteria To be considered for listing the most beautiful places to live in Italy the results of a survey of nearly 100,000 readers from 30 European countries who live in Italy and to be listed as one of the most beautiful places to live in Italy the criteria are that they have to be a popular tourist destination, have an outstanding quality of life, enjoy a good standard of living and provide a high level of personal and social care. As a tourist destination Italy is considered those places in which Italy is featured among the most visited countries in the world, these are shown in the report in conjunction with the other requirements. The quality of life criteria are based on the Human Development Index, the quality of the environment, public health, crime rates, education and life expectancy. There is a specific target set for each of the criteria, which must be at least on par with the average in Italy. Siena was listed as one of the most beautiful places to live in Italy in 2017 by Lonely Planet. The data is being fed into the template, but the view doesn't render it. I have this code: `App.ApplicationController = Ember.Controller.extend({ // pass some action from parent to child sendAction: function() { alert("sent action!"); var app = this; 82157476af`
